President's Report:

Apologies for the lateness of this newsletter, with the proposed constitution taking up a lot of the secretary's time last week and the Special General Meeting being held on the 28th June, we are a little behind. The SGM had a good turnout of members and the proposed constitution as overseen by the constitution subcommittee, was passed in full by all present. It now goes before the Annual General Meeting to be held on Friday the 2nd August commencing at 10.00am as a motion and once passed there, it will be forwarded to the Office of Fair Trading in Brisbane for their approval.

As from Sunday the 30th June if you have not paid your subscription fees, you will not be able speak or vote on a motion. Members who are in arrears, have until the 30th September 2019 to pay their subscription fee, or they must complete a new membership application form and allotted a new association number.

Our 'Mugs Gallery' has grown with members supplying their before and after service photos. If you wish to have your 'mug shot' up on the wall, please give the secretary a picture during your service and one after, if you haven't got a recent picture, one will be done for you at the Centre any Friday.

The Warwick-Killarney Uniting Church has invited all members, their families and friends to a special service on the 11th August commencing at 10.00am for Vietnam veterans.

This is just one week prior to our Vietnam Veterans Day Commemoration Service at the Cenotaph in Leslie Park, on the 18th August commencing at 10.45am.
(Page 15 has all the details.)

We are thankful to member Ray Wingett for his involvement in the annual 'Wood Raffle,' he organises the cutting of the wood, has it stacked in our trailer and then sets about asking members to help sell the tickets at the Rose City Shopping World. My congratulation Ray for a job well done, your expertise in this undertaking each year really assists with our funds. I think you might be the treasurers best buddy.

Our next 'Wood Raffle' is this month on Friday the 12th and Saturday the 13th at the Rose City Shopping World, if you can spare two hours during this time to help sell the tickets, see Ray, or place your name on the time sheet on the notice board, we thank the management of the centre for permitting us to hold these raffles each year.

If you are thinking of possibly nominating for the executive or committee of management at this year's election, please see the secretary for a 'Duties Disclosure', making sure you have the time to carry out the obligations required.

As most members would know by now, we are a standalone association without a headquarters or branches, we assist former defence or emergency services members with a range of services and reflects our ability to provide pro-active support to our community. We aim to provide opportunities for past and present personnel, to reach goals, enjoy lifestyle and maximise participation in the community.

Our next newsletter will be out on Friday the 9th August, after the AGM to advise who is serving where.

Two men are playing golf. One of them is about to take a swing when a funeral procession appears on the road next to the course. He stops mid-swing, takes off his cap, closes his eyes, and bows his head in contemplation.

His opponent comments: "That must be the most touching thing I've ever seen. You are a very feeling man." The man, recovering himself, replies, "Yeah, well we were married 35 years."

British Armed Forces Veterans

A young guardsman is on the gate at Buckingham Palace.

The RSM walks up to him and says;
"Right lad, the Queen is out on public duties I want to know the minute she gets back here; do you understand?

The minute she's back you let me know".
"Yes sir " says the young guardsman

So, 10 minutes later a big limo pulls in through the gates, the guardsman stops the car, pops his head in and says;

"scuse me ma'am are you the Queen?"

"No, I'm Princess Ann"

"Ok sorry to delay you ma'am, proceed".

The next limo pulls in and he sticks his head in the window

"scuse me ma'am are you the Queen? "

"No, I'm princess Margaret".

" Ok sorry to delay you ma'am, proceed.

Next limo pulls in and same again, he sticks his head in the window,

"Scuse me ma'am, are you the Queen?"

"Yes, I'm the Queen".

"Right" he says. "Well make yourself scarce love, cos the RSM is lookin for you".

Ballarat busts past $billion$ milestone

The crew of HMAS Ballarat has stopped illegal narcotics in excess of AUD$1 billion* from funding terrorism and other illegal activity.

The combined hauls were confiscated in 10 separate seizure operations, with the latest occurring on 10 May 2019. During this latest seizure, the boarding team took custody of more than 3tonnes of hashish with an estimated street value of AUD$53 million*.

The Australian Navy frigate has now seized nearly 13tonnes of hashish, 1.4 tonnes of heroin and a small quantity of methyl amphetamines, with a combined street value of AUD$1.073 billion*.

HMAS Ballarat's boarding party conduct a boarding of a suspicious show.

HMAS Ballarat has conducted 31 boarding's since deploying to the Middle East on Operation Manitou in November last year. Operation Manitou is the name for the Australian Government's contribution to international efforts to promote maritime security, stability and prosperity in the Middle East.

This is the second deployment to the Middle East for HMAS Ballarat and the 67th rotation of a Royal Australian Navy vessel in the region since 1990.

Commanding Officer HMAS Ballarat Commander Paul Johnson said the ship's company had contributed to the long history of Australia's commitment to the Combined Maritime Forces in the Middle East.

"Our commitment safeguards our access to international trading routes and ensures we deal with threats before they become serious risks to Australia," Commander Johnson said.

New Zealand's new dive tender delivered

The Royal New Zealand Navy's future dive and hydrographic vessel arrived at Devonport Naval Base Auckland this week.

She pulled into Auckland at the end of a long delivery voyage from Denmark. The second-hand, fully refurbished vessel is currently civilian registered with the name Edda Fonn. She will be formally commissioned into Royal New Zealand Navy service in June by Prime Minister Jacinda Ardern and renamed HMNZS Manawanui.

The retiring dive tender HMNZS Manawanui entered Devenport for the last time on 23 February, before being officially decommissioned after nearly 30 years of service. The future HMNZS Manawanui will replace two decommissioned vessels – the hydrographic survey ship HMNZS Resolution and the dive tender HMNZS Manawanui. She will be the fourth ship to carry the name. Built in 2003, Edda Fonn was a Norwegian offshore support vessel.

Aussie KC-30A back on Middle East operations

An Australian KC-30A Multi-Role Tanker Transport aircraft has operations in the Middle East. The KC-30A deployment is part of supporting the US-led Operation Inherent Resolve mission to Daesh.

Despite its territorial defeat, Daesh continues to pose a security threat in the Middle East region and beyond. The KC-30A will provide important air-to-air refuelling capability, which is essential to sustain effective Coalition air operations against Daesh. Group Captain Paul Long, Commander of Australia's Air Task Group in the Middle East, said the aircraft was one of the most advanced air refuelling platforms of its type in the world, generating greater reach for Coalition air operations.

"The KC-30A can operate at long ranges, delivering significant payloads of fuel to a wide variety of Coalition aircraft," Group Captain Long said. The aircraft is equipped with two forms of air-to-air refuelling systems, which allow it to refuel almost all aircraft in theatre, including all F/A-18 Hornet variants, F-16 Falcons, AV-8B Harriers, Eurofighters, Dassault Rafales, C-17A Globemasters and more. The last time our KC30A was in the Middle East, it clocked up its 100,000,000th – yes, that's 100millionth – pound of fuel delivered during air-to-air refuel missions on Operation Okra.

GG Cosgrove's last military parade

General Sir Peter Cosgrove, Governor-General of Australia will preside over the Queen's Birthday Parade for the 'Trooping of the Queen's Colour' on Saturday 8 June 2019 – his final public appearance in military uniform for before he retires.

The Queen's Birthday Parade is held each year to celebrate the official birthday of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, Queen of Australia. The parade will be held at the Royal Military College, Duntroon, starting at 10.15am.

This will be the first time in five years that the Queen's Birthday Parade will be held on the parade ground at the Royal Military College Duntroon. It has been held on Rond Terrace, on the shore of Lake Burley Griffin in recent years.

General Sir Peter Cosgrove will be replaced as Governor General of Australia later this month, by General (Retd) David Hurley AC, DSC, FTSE, current Governor of New South Wales. Sir Peter is the 26th Governor General since Federation in 1901 and only the 12th Australian to hold the post. He was sworn in as Governor General on 28 March 2014, taking over from Dame Quentin Bryce AD CVO.

VVCS is now Open Arms - Veterans & Families Counselling

Veterans and Veterans Families Counselling Service (VVCS) changed its name

Veterans and Veterans Families
Counselling Service

Open Arms continues to provide the same professional, confidential service available to all current and ex-serving ADF members and their families.

What is your new name?

As of October 2018, VVCS is operating as Open Arms, with the tagline veterans and families counselling. The new branding also acknowledges that VVCS is a service founded by Vietnam Veterans. Our name is changing but our phone number and professional service are not. We continue to provide free and confidential support to current and former ADF members and their families 24/7 on 1800 011 046.

Why change the brand?

Our organisation provides counselling support to veterans and their families when they need it most. But unfortunately, other than existing clients, many people who could greatly benefit from our services do not know who we are or how we can help. Research showed that our previous name, which was regularly shortened to an acronym, was unclear, and the branding was uninviting, and not well recognised. This new brand is an opportunity to better represent what we are all about with a fresh look that is more meaningful and recognisable, at a time when we are expanding the group of people who are eligible to use our services.

What does the new Open Arms logo represent? Open arms are a very powerful symbol of support, safety, and security, particularly for Vietnam veterans, who spent long periods in the jungle during the war. Their lifeline was the Huey helicopter, which they would call to either take them out to safety at the end of an operation, or to provide critical supplies, like food, water, or ammunition. But to let the pilot know where to land, one soldier had to stand in a field with open arms, completely vulnerable. Our new logo reminds us of those brave soldiers, while also representing so much more about those who serve—families welcoming soldiers' home, land crew directing planes, and, of course, our policy to welcome those who need support with open arms.

Who decided to change the name and brand? In 2017, the VVCS National Advisory Committee—which includes representatives of our key stakeholders—recognised that to better promote the valuable services we provide, we needed a more recognisable and memorable brand. Based on their advice the then Minister for Veterans Affairs, tasked the National Advisory Committee with overseeing the development of a new name and brand for the organisation.

How did you arrive at this new brand? The new name and brand were developed based on market research and extensive consultation with Vietnam veterans, current personnel, reservists, partners, families, contemporary veterans, and peer network advisers across Australia. The results of the research were presented to the National Advisory Committee who unanimously agreed that the name Open Arms, and the tagline veterans and families counselling best represented our important work.

How will people know it is the same service? Targeted promotion will let our main clients and stakeholders know about the change. This will include direct communication, advertising, editorials, videos, and a new website. As our new brand is more recognisable and clearly represents what we do, we expect that, over time, it will better connect with potential clients, so that increasing numbers of people will contact us to get the support they need.

Laughing Delilah

A lady about 8 months pregnant got on a bus.
 She noticed the man opposite her was smiling at her.
 She immediately moved to another seat. This time the smile turned into a grin, so she moved again. He seemed more amused.
 When on the fourth move, the man burst out laughing, she complained to the driver and he had the man arrested.

The case came up in court. The Judge asked the man, about 20 years old, what he had to say for himself. The man replied..."Well your Honor, it was like this: When the lady got on the bus, I couldn't help but notice her condition. She sat under a sweets' sign that said, "The Double Mint Twins are Coming" and I grinned.

Then she moved and sat under a sign that said, "Logan's Liniment will reduce the swelling", and I had to smile. Then she placed herself under a deodorant sign that said, "William's Big Stick Did the Trick", and I could hardly contain myself. BUT, your Honor, when she moved for the fourth time and sat under the sign that said, "Goodyear Rubber could have prevented this Accident" I just lost it."

Major changes to Army-Recruit Training at Kapooka

Hand-to-hand fighting and combat-focused marksmanship feature on a revised Army recruit course after changes were approved the end of last year.

Recruits will also receive foundation training in chemical, biological, radiological and nuclear defence and be required to pass a PESA (physical employment standards assessment) before marching out of Kapooka.

Australian Army recruits in training at 1st Training Battalion, Kapooka, NSW

The Army swim test and the basic fitness assessment are conducted but are diagnostic assessments only. Commanding Officer 1RTB Lieutenant Colonel Roger McMurray said the course was modified to prepare every soldier to be ready for the physical, mental and moral rigours of close combat. “Our goal is to deliver world-class foundation combatants who are physically robust, possess grounded combat behaviours, ethics and values and be set up to succeed at their initial employment training,” Lieutenant Colonel McMurray said.

“We are very fortunate to live in an advanced, respectful and relaxed modern society, but our challenge at 1RTB is to draw people from that society and transform them into confident and capable soldiers.” While drill and navigation remain in the course, some elements have been removed – including movements in slow time – and, aiming off, bypassing and conducting resections have been removed from the navigation syllabus. 1RTB plans to have 4500 part-time and full-time recruits in 2019. “That’s an enormous responsibility that necessitates a considerable workload for staff,” Lieutenant Colonel McMurray said. “But, the opportunity to train the next generation of Army’s soldiers is one of the most worthwhile and rewarding opportunities that Army offers.”

Shooting to exploit enhanced lethality

The Army Recruit Course has modified shooting lessons to the enhanced lethality of the EF88 and place greater combat marksmanship.

1RTB Master Coach WO2 Anthony Pratt said the new series of rifle practices was intended to replace the legacy live fire (LF) series and place the focus on combat. “The purpose is to engender a conceptual shift in Army’s approach to small-arms live firing.

They will enhance the shooting skills of Army while instilling a combat mindset and building combat behaviours,” he said. “Rifle practice 3A is the new gateway for field firing that recruits must pass, replacing the old LF6. “All recruits are trained on the EF88 and the Combat Marksmanship Continuum (CMC), and must achieve an RP3A pass standard as a march-out requirement. “Rifle practices provide graduated combat marksmanship training, designed to develop soldiers’ combat shooting skills at ranges from 100m to 300m using a combination of static and moving targets.” WO2 Pratt said. “Recruits respond well to the new methods despite the challenge of progressing trainees to a state of ‘unconscious competence’ during the course.

“The major differences between the legacy LF program and the CMC is the intensity of shooting and the level of survivalist combat behaviours expected to be displayed by the firer,” he said. “The CMC program places an increased responsibility on the firer to make decisions that are not unlike the decisions that would need to be made in actual combat – for example, the firer decides on how many rounds to fire to neutralise a threat, when to apply safe, when to utilise cover and when to conduct tactical or emergency reloads. “The end state is far superior to what was being produced under the legacy shooting program – recruits have demonstrated higher levels of weapon confidence, proficiency and safety. “Skill degradation between the completion of the qualifying practice and Exercise Challenge is minimal, demonstrating that the level of training and repetition is more than sufficient and beyond expectation for the all-corps environment.

New physical conditioning

Applying a single fitness standard across a diverse range of people is difficult and at the start of military training, this difficulty is coupled with the added risk of injury from new, unconditioned trainees.

The 1RTB warrant officer physical training instructor WO2 Dean King said the all-corps PESA coupled with Army’s recent emphasis on conditioning helped deliver soldiers fit for the rigours of their future roles from a wider pool of recruits.

“The PESA provides a field-ready indicator for recruits by assessing job-specific aspects of fitness through the use of occupational tasks,” WO2 King said. “It sets a standard of physical preparedness that is gender and age neutral, providing confidence that recruits can perform to standard without sustaining injury.”

Instilling a combat mindset

The Army Combative Program (ACP) aims to promote combat effectiveness, increased lethality and survivability through the development of combat skills, instilling a combat mindset and building combat behaviours. Lieutenant Rhys Faulder, Platoon Commander of 2 Platoon, A Company, 1RTB, said instilling combat behaviour in recruits was a key foundation of recruit training. “The ACP is a safe and effective hand-to-hand fighting program,” Lieutenant Faulder said. “It provides a structured and graduated progression of self-defence and non-lethal response options, through to lethal fighting techniques. “The focus is on instilling recruits with basic skills to survive a close fight through a combat mindset and the development of combat behaviours, with the goal of bringing the recruits to a level where they could survive an encounter, retain their weapon and continue the fight.”

Protective training

1RTB has introduced basic operator training to prepare soldiers for use of future chemical, biological, radiological and nuclear (CBRN) protective equipment.

Lieutenant Colonel McMurray said the training conducted at 1RTB was an introduction to self-protection skills and individual equipment.

“Recruits are instructed on the basics of CBRN to provide foundation skills that are further developed at initial-employment training schools or once in units,” he said.

“They learn the basics on CBRN threats, practise individual drills and complete a respirator confidence test using a mask-test facility.

“The use of a riot-control agent to confirm drills is a daunting prospect for recruits, but they gain complete confidence in their equipment and there is universally positive feedback on the experience.”

The Warwick-Killarney Uniting Church is hosting a 'Special Vietnam Veterans Day Service' on Sunday the 11th August 2019
commencing at 10.00am.

Vietnam Veterans their families and friends are invited to this special service, the Sunday prior to Vietnam Veterans Day.

During the service we give thanks to our Vietnam veterans, their families and their friends, who so long ago fought such an unpopular war. We know that all wars are unpopular, but during other wars or conflicts, our sailors, soldiers and airmen were given the thanks of a grateful nation. This did not happen for Vietnam veterans who were shunned for many years after.

The church hopes in just a small way to give thanks to the veterans, not only of the Vietnam war, but all members of the Australian Defence Forces who signed the dotted line to give service to their country.
